The macro-economic environment continues to be challenging. Industrial Production growth declined 2.2% in June. WPI inflation rose to 5.8% in July from 4.9% in June. Food inflation rose to 9.5% in July against 8.6% last month. The currency has depreciated sharply over the last few days to touch an all time low.

There are, however signs that the situation is not all gloom and doom and things have begun to improve. WPI core inflation is showing signs of easing. With the monsoon progressing well and already 17% above normal, the kharif and rabi crops should be good. This will lead to a drop in food prices and hence a drop in inflation and also a give a boost to rural consumption. Both the June and July trade deficit at USD 12.2 bln and USD 12.3 bln are a significant improvement over the average monthly trade deficit of USD 16.8 bln. Exports have jumped by 11.6% and imports have declined by 6.2%, raising hopes that the current account deficit will be contained at 3.7% of GDP. GDP growth for 2013-14 should be in the region of 5% to 5.5%. We expect the government to seriously address issue relating to inflation control, growth, economic reform and fiscal consolidation, as these could influence the election outcome.

Government will also step up spending in the run up to the elections and this should have a positive impact on consumption driven sectors. To achieve fiscal consolidation, the government has made fuel prices market driven and approved the equity stake sale of a number of PSUs. The government is speeding up the reform process and has revised and simplified the foreign direct investment process across multiple sectors. To revive the investment cycle, the Cabinet Committee on Investments has given clearance to a number of stuck projects. Power sector reforms in terms of regulations to ensure coal availability etc have also been initiated. To address the current account deficit problem, the government and RBI have taken steps to stabilize the rupee, reduce non essential imports by imposing duties on the import of gold and luxury goods and shore up dollar reserves by allowing the PSU financial institutions to go in for quasi sovereign dollar borrowings and relaxing the ECB norms.

The financial markets seem to have over-reacted to some of the recent measures introduced by RBI. RBI tightened liquidity and increased short term interest rates primarily to reduce the speculative pressure on the rupee. RBI's measures to reducing overseas direct investment under the automatic route and restrict remittances abroad were misunderstood as capital control restrictions. Officials have since clarified that these are not capital control measures and under no circumstances would there be any kind of restrictions placed on FII investments or dividend repatriation in the future. The collateral damage due to some of the RBI and Government measures was that yields across the board moved up and the 10 year government bond yield has crossed 9.20%. The equity market too corrected by 12% on worries that rising interest rates would dampen growth.

Outlook for equities

July was an extremely volatile month for Indian equities. The depreciation of the currency, liquidity tightening, a spike in interest rates, improving US macro-economic data, together formed a potent cocktail to spook the markets. With fears of QE tapering gaining momentum, FIIs remained net sellers for the second consecutive month in July. There was a net outflow of $992mn from FIIs, reducing the YTD FII inflows to $12.5bn. DIIs continued to be net sellers in July with net outflows to the tune of $258mn taking the YTD net selling to $7.8bn.

The BSE Sensex, post the recent correction, is trading at a P/E of 13.9x FY14e earnings. This is a 15% discount to its historical average. Further the broad market, including many stocks in banking, capital goods, oil/coal PSUs, materials etc are trading at their all time low valuations. Hence equity markets will find valuation support at current levels. The reason for such a depressed equity market is the pervasive pessimism and once this mood changes, stock prices should recover. As long term investors, we would be cautiously optimistic on equities.

Outlook for debt

Bonds lost all the gains they had made in the April-May rally. The liquidity tightening measures of the RBI led to a spurt in yields across the board. The 10 year government bond yield moved up sharply by almost 200 basis points to its current levels of 9.20%.

In the short term the bond markets may be subdued with tight liquidity putting pressure on the short end of the yield curve and long bonds seeing less participation from an already stretched market. The 10 year government bond may trade in the range of 9% to 9.25% in the near term and corporate bond spreads may widen to 80 basis points. We are of the view that these tightening measures of RBI would be reversed once the rupee stabilizes and this would cause yields to ease in the medium term. Bond investors will gain by being patient.
